INNOVATIVE
LEADERSHIP AND TEAMBUILDING
ACTIVITIES FOR GROUPS

THE CONCEPT

Innovative group activity, focused on leadership and teaming, which uses historic events and sites to stimulate interaction and the benefits of shared learning. The programs can be conducted either on-location, outdoors on the sites where history-shaping events occurred, or in conference room settings, depending on weather and, if desired, meeting objectives and/or themes.

*Ramparts of Fort Howell
Hilton Head Island, SC*

THE PROGRAM FOCUS

Supporting enhanced team relationships and improved individual, or leadership, effectiveness, the programming takes the decisions and actions of pivotal figures in real-life dramas from the past and brings them into focus in the present as analogs for leadership and team dynamics in contemporary business environments and situations.

THE METHOD

Grouped into small teams, participants are challenged to discover and utilize information provided (and/or available online) in piecing together the fascinating stories of central characters and their roles in shaping the outcomes of historic events. As a direct relationship between leaders' or teams' actions and the results in these history-making situations becomes apparent, participants are asked to describe the parallels between the dynamics of the past and similar factors affecting leading and teaming in their current work environment.

THE IMPACT

The key lessons from this program are articulated explicitly by the participants and implications for the workplace are recorded.

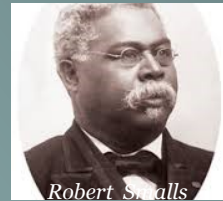

*Charlesfort Monument
Beaufort, SC*

These implications are in the form of strategies which can be applied to acknowledged workplace challenges. Participants emerge with a common conceptual framework, a vivid new language for discussing leadership and teaming issues, and a shared sense of leverageable opportunities for improved effectiveness as individuals and teams.
